Travelling to Telekom Laboratories by car.

General remarks on travelling to Berlin by car

If you are travelling to Berlin by car, it is best to take the highway or Stadtautobahn (see overview map). From the exit marked Kaiserdamm, it is approximately a 10-minute drive to Ernst-Reuter-Platz, depending on the traffic.

Parking

There is always plenty of (metered) parking slots in Bismarckstraße.

Parking in Otto-Suhr-Allee is free of charge, but it can be a little bit further from Ernst-Reuter Platz.

Arriving from the north via the A 111

Follow the A 111. This will automatically take you onto the A 100. Take the exit marked Kaiserdamm, and turn left into Knobelsdorffstraße. After crossing the Autobahn turn right into Sophie-Charlotten-Straße. Turn left into Kaiserdamm at the next traffic light. Follow Kaiserdamm / Bismarckstraße until you reach Ernst-Reuter-Platz.

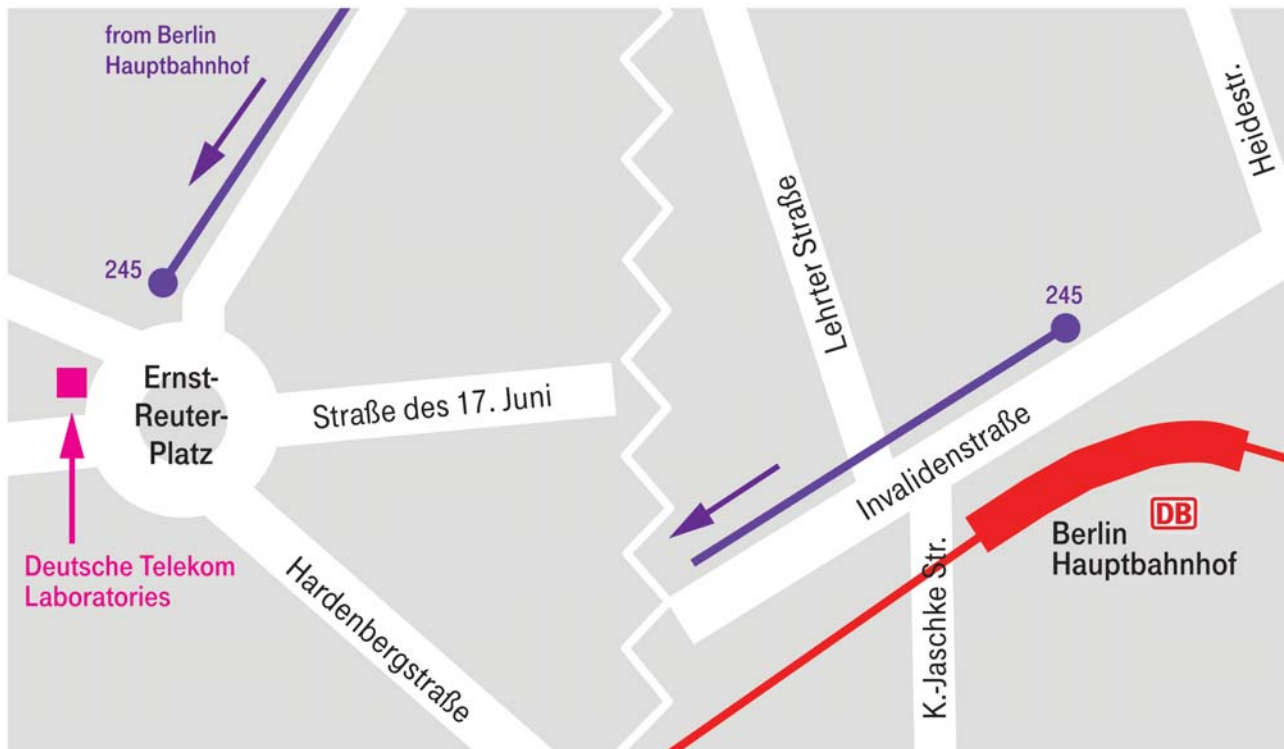

Arriving from the south via the A 115 (Avus) or the A 100

If you are arriving via the A 115 (Avus), please continue to the intersection Dreieck Funkturm. From there, take the A 100 heading towards Hamburg. Take the exit marked Kaiserdamm, turn right into Knobelsdorffstraße and turn right again at the next traffic light into Sophie-Charlotten-Straße. At the next traffic light, turn left into Kaiserdamm. Follow Kaiserdamm / Bismarckstraße until you reach Ernst-Reuter-Platz.

Arrival by train.

Arriving at Berlin Hauptbahnhof railway station

Take the Bus No. 245 heading towards S+U Zoologischer Garten. Get off at bus stop Marchstraße. The bus departs every 10 minutes from Invalidenstraße (just north of the station) and the trip takes about 20 minutes.
